DESIGNERS SHARE THEIR TIPS ON FASHION'S LATEST STYLES

I chose this look because I like how it exaggerates the female silhouette.

A girl wearing this jacket looks intimidating, as though she has super-powers and is about to save the world.

I think the whole look is about the jacket being the statement, and everything else is quite low key, hence the basic mini and singlet.

You've got to have confidence (to wear it).

This look is not for the faint-hearted. It's for the girl who wants to push the boundary a bit and is confident with her sense of style.

She's also got to have a sense of humour. You'll definitely be the butt of some drunk guy's bad jokes when you are doing a 7 Eleven run in the city at 3am. (As I say, zapp him with your superpowers!)

But this jacket is in fact way more versatile than first meets the eye. It looks even more sinister with a hot dress and killer heels. It also looks awesome with the Extinct high waisted skinny jeans for a more casual day look.

JACKET

Made from butter-soft nappa leather, this blazer has super-exaggerated shoulders and two pointed tuxedo tails at the back. The inspiration was superheroes and villains. Putting this jacket on is like putting on urban body armour.

SINGLET

The singlet top in soft modal is a great basic. The cut has a deep neckline and armhole, giving it a relaxed drape.

SKIRT

The cotton lycra fitted mini balances out the jacket's extreme proportions. High-waisted skirts are a season must-have for every girl. They can be used as a layer to base many looks upon and one in black is always handy.

FLIPPED OUT

A folding flip flop is the perfect accessory for post-race-day wobbles. Flipsters fold up into the size of an average digital camera and come in a simple black.

$29.95
